

Pathways to Well-Being is a joint initiative between the Children Youth and Families Behavioral Health Services (CYF-BHS) and the Child Welfare Services (CWS) sectors of the County of San Diego, Health and Human Services Agency. The purpose of Pathways to Well-Being is to enhance the delivery of children’s services through a collaborative team of mental health providers, CWS social workers, parent and youth partners, the child receiving services, and their family/caregivers. This approach enables strengths based, culturally relevant, and trauma informed services.

San Diego County Pathways to Well-Being One Day Overview trainings help to facilitate a common, strategic and practical framework that integrates service planning, delivery, coordination and management among all those involved throughout the County in working with children involved in multiple service systems. The San Diego County Pathways to Well-Being One Day Overview trainings are taught in a triad with a representative from Child Welfare Services, Behavioral Health Services and the family/youth sector. All trainings are open to CWS staff, BHS therapists, counselors, family & youth support partners, case managers, and other direct service providers working with children, youth, and families.

Upon completion of this training, participants will be able to describe the purpose and core values of Pathways to Well-Being, list strategies for cross program collaboration, identify children and youth eligible for enhanced services, describe the purpose and value of teaming with children/youth and families and list strategies for successfully developing, participating in and supporting a Child and Family Team (CFT).
