

Behavioral Health Education & Training Academy presents

Working with Transitional Age Youth Series

TRAINING INFORMATION

Trainer: Rex Sheridan, MFT

Audience: BHS Counselors, therapists, and case managers serving TAY

Course Description: This training series is designed to offer Transitional Age Youth (TAY) service providers with the unique skills and practice needed to effectively work with the TAY population. This training series will focus on the specific developmental and transitional supports required to assist TAY individuals to transition into adulthood, by addressing behavioral health needs. Participants will have the opportunity to work directly with TAY peers during this training series. Click here for training outline.

Learning Objectives: Upon completion of this training, participants will be able to:

- Describe the unique characteristics, life experiences and required relationships that define the TAY population.
- Engage TAY participants in a manner that allows for the development of interdependent relationships
- Identify the current system TAY must navigate.
- Provide TAY specific services in a culturally and trauma-informed manner
- Demonstrate the required skills for effective connection and communication with TAY service participants.
